When children enter out-of-home placement, many services are provided to the family to facilitate reunification or other permanency goals. The Department of Economic Security (DES) is required to have a written case plan with all the required elements developed for each child in foster care placement and care responsibility. The case plan documents DES's efforts to meet the child and family needs and moves toward reunification or permanency for each child placed in foster care. These needs include the behavioral health needs of children and parents. The DES case plan document includes seven components, encompassing all of the federal requirements, as follows:

- Permanency goal – setting the goal and expected date of achievement;
- Family intervention plan – specifying for all parents whose parental rights have not been terminated, and guardians, the outcomes they must achieve in order to care for their child safely and services that are aimed at facilitating achievement of the outcomes;
- Child safety plan – specifying steps that will be taken to ensure the child's health and safety is of paramount concern;
- Out-of-home care plan – specifying for every child in out-of-home care, the child's educational and health status, special needs, and placement type; services provided to the child by out-of-home care providers (including behavioral health services through the DHS/RBHA system); actions to assure safety in the out-of-home placement, and for any child placed substantially distant from the parent's home or out-of-home or out-of-state, and the reason the placement is in the best interest of the child;
- Independent living plan – specifying for every child age sixteen or older outcomes that will help the youth develop independent living skills and services that will facilitate achievement of these outcomes;
- Contact and visitation plan – specifying for every child in out-of-home care the visitation between the child and the child's parents, siblings, family members, other relatives, friends and any former foster parent; and
- Indication of family and service team involvement in developing the case plan.
